INTERNET

Cable Internet connectivity is a fast, scalable, and secure large capacity Internet solution. With Cable Fiber or Coax networks, organizations get bandwidth options up to 10Gb supporting data transfers, media sharing, media streaming and collaboration.

NETWORK SERVICES

Cable networks provide high-capacity, high-bandwidth, and high-speed access in a reliable and secure environment. Remote employees and satellite offices can access applications and services safely and efficiently anywhere in the world.

VOICE

Cable company facilities-based networks allow for an easy-to-manage, fiber-rich IP network with superior functionality and call quality.

Cable powered PRI provides multi-line, high capacity ISDN voice trunks, while SIP trunks allow businesses to utilize VOIP solutions while utilizing their current phones. Turn-Key Hosted VoiP over coax solutions are also available, with all phone equipment included.

CLOUD SERVICES

Cable services are in the Cloud, allowing organizations to reduce costs and complexity while increasing efficiency and collaboration. Cloud computing, security, storage, infrastructure, software, and backup can all be supported with the reliability and security that only cable provides.

BUNDLED SERVICES

Bundling cable services allows organizations to reduce the complexity of their network while streamlining processes. By bundling phone, Internet, Ethernet, and/or Cable TV services, organizations often invest the cost savings back into the business via bandwidth upgrades or other value-added services.
