Goal 4:
To build a physical bisexual* resource center.

Our ultimate, long-term goal is to have a physical office space to provide resources and services to the bisexual community, which is the largest subgroup in the LGBT population.

We need you to help make that a reality! Volunteers are always needed, especially with expertise in marketing, fundraising, web design, and grant writing.

Another way to assist is through funding. Please visit our website to see how you can make a safe and easy donation.

Founded in 2008, and a registered non-profit since 2010, the Los Angeles Bi Task Force (LABTF), is a grassroots organization that promotes education, advocacy, and cultural enrichment for the bisexual/pansexual/fluid communities in the Greater Los Angeles Area.
Goal 1: To provide educational resources to the bisexual* community and our allies.

The Los Angeles Bi Task Force provides education on bisexual issues by presenting at universities and organizations, making radio/TV appearances, sponsoring presentations by scholars/researchers and bi activists, and collaborating with other inclusive organizations on various projects.

LABTF featured Dr. Lisa Diamond (center), author of Sexual Fluidity in 2010. Here with John Sylla from the American Institute of Bisexuality, and Mike Szymanski, bi author.

Screening of "Kinsey" co-sponsored with Antioch University Los Angeles in 2013, with Q&A panel of local bi leaders.

*The term “bisexual” means romantic and/or sexual attraction to more than one gender and is used as an umbrella term to include pansexual, fluid, queer, and other non-monosexual self-identifications.

Goal 2: To promote advocacy and visibility of the bisexual* community.

The Los Angeles Bi Task Force promotes visibility and advocacy of the bisexual community through its official website, and through a listserv, Facebook, Twitter, and YouTube. We promote bisexual visibility at Los Angeles LGBT Pride events and are involved with other important sociopolitical and historical events affecting our community.

LABTF launched its first LA Bisexual/Pansexual/Fluid Community Needs Assessment in 2014 to help inform agencies on how to better serve our community.

Los Angeles Bi Task Force promotes bisexual cultural enrichment via the annual Bi Arts Fest in honor of Celebrate Bisexuality Day. This festival is an opportunity to showcase local bisexual performing and visual artists. We’re also proud to have on our Steering Committee the creator of the only known bi comic strip, “Gooch”!
