

Education

Stoner studied under master artisans, craftsmen, and metal smiths in informal settings and workshops over the years. Additionally, he studied for years through private drawing lessons in order to get a handle on perspective, free drawing, sketching, and illustration.

Style

Stoner specializes with the wood species known as Basswood, but occasionally uses other wood types as well. His style is magical realism where imaginary and fantastic scenes are depicted in a sharp, detailed, but realistic manner. His palette consists of the wood grain, various shades by use of pyrography, and finish sealant to vary color. Randall's sculptures are framed with the addition of felt backing, and are meant to be hung with frame attached.

Family

Randall has been married to his wife, Yoko, since 1996. Between both sides of their families, they have eleven nephews and nieces. Currently, they reside in Orange County, California with their cat Que.
